*****

I am directed to say that it has been decided that the 22nd June ~~1911~~ next, the day fixed for the Coronation in London of His Most Gracious Majesty, King George V, Emperor of India, shall be notified as a public holiday under the Negotiable Instruments Act, and that Divine Service shall be held at Simla, and at provincial head-quarters and military stations, on that date. I am to enclose a copy of the notification, dated the 23rd May 1911, issued by the Military Secretary to His Excellency the Viceroy, regarding the Service to be held at Simla, and to request that orders may be similarly issued for holding Divine Service at your head-quarters, and that steps may be taken to notify the holiday.

2. The question of holding Service at other Civil stations should be left to the discretion of the ~~xxxxxxx~~ Bishops concerned, but parade services will also be held under the orders of the Military authorities. I am to add that in all cases the hour of the Service should be fixed to suit local convenience.

3. The special form of service to be used on this occasion has been communicated direct to all Indian Bishops.
